Corps assures officials on levee

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers hasn't said much about the Granite City area Mississippi River levees because there hasn't been anything to say — the levees are doing fine and there have been no problems to report.

Dennis Gilmore, the Corps' site engineer for the levees from the Harford Canal north of Granite City to the Prairie Du Pont canal south of Cahokia, explained that to a group of area mayors, police chiefs, fire chiefs and other officials Friday during a tour of the levee at the U.S. Army Price Center.

Still, Maj. Gen. John Cowlings, commander of the U.S. Army Aviation and Troop Command and a resident of the Price Center, said he knows how hard it is to explain that the water is leaking from the Mississippi River levee is leaking only because it is supposed to be leaking.

With what the media are calling "The Flood of the Century" flowing a stone's throw away from his house and the Mississippi River now expected to crest at 49 feet — 15 feet above flood stage — Cowlings said it is impossible to keep his wife from getting upset when she looks out of the window and sees water where she thinks water is not supposed to be.

"It upset me too until I found out the water is there intentionally," Cowlings said. "Now that it's been explained to me I feel better."

Feeling better was the idea behind Friday's tour, Cowlings said. As the ranking resident of the Price Center, Cowlings said he is the equivalent of the center's mayor and, like the other mayors, has faced nearly endless questions about whether the levee is going to break and what's going to happen if it does.

Gilmore said the levee is an "industrial levee" that is 220 feet wide at the base and 54 feet high — two feet higher than the 52-foot level is designed to handle and 5 feet higher than the projected river crest.

The river side of the levee has a rock (See CORPS, Page 8A)

Levee updates set

Granite City Community Access Channel 6 will present 20-minute programs updating the current levee conditions twice a day through Tuesday. The program, featuring area officials and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers representatives, will be shown at 6 and 8 p.m. each day.

EPA says parking lot was built on 'navigable waters'

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A Pontoon Beach businessman ignored repeated warnings from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency while building a parking lot on wetlands just west of Highway 111, near Horseshoe Lake, according to EPA.

But Ron Shafer, former owner of Spartan Health Spa, contends that the area is not a "wetland" and that dams built by beavers are the cause of any standing water on the land.

"The Corps of Engineers say that the land is part of navigable waters of the United States. I defy anyone to try to navigate a vessel any type of vessel — there," Shafer told the Press-Record/Journal earlier this year.

He said the area is a virtual haven for wildlife and plants, and that he has never damaged any habitat there.

"In fact, if I would remove those beaver dams, the land would be completely dry," Shafer said.

But according to a U.S. EPA order dated June 10 of this year, Shafer dumped about 31,500 cubic yards of earth, concrete and other debris on about five acres of wetlands without a permit, in violation of the Clean Water Act, on or before Nov. 27, 1990.

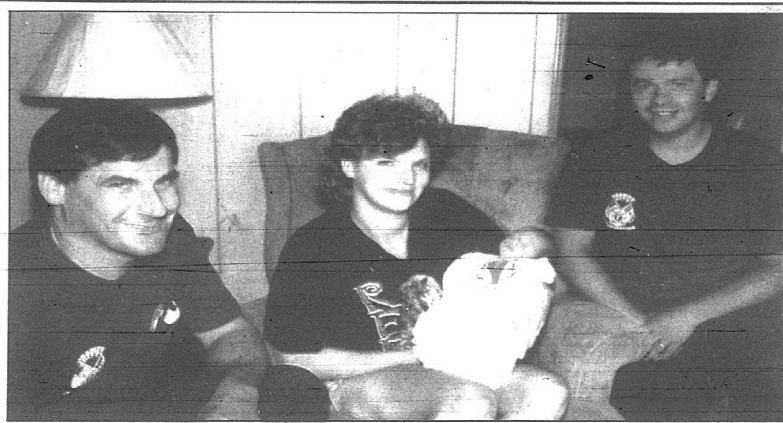

Shafer was preparing the site for a parking lot and building, according to the order.

On Dec. 13, 1990, Shafer was ordered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to cease and desist unauthorized dumping on the site. But he discharged another 12,600 cubic yards of earth on two additional acres at the site on or before Jan. 11, 1991, the order states.

On Jan. 22, 1991, Shafer was again ordered to stop unauthorized dumping.

But on or before March 9 of this year, he dumped an additional 31,500 cubic yards of earth, asphalt, concrete and other debris on another half-acre of wet-

Nothing to it: Paramedic delivers baby

By Bob Slate

If Vince Martinez never delivers another baby, it will be too soon.

"It was kind of neat, but I could finish my career and not do it again," Martinez, a paramedic with the Granite City Fire Department said last month. Martinez and Larry LeMaster delivered a baby at 6:18 a.m. July 11 at the home of Michael and Dawn Godair in the 700 block of 26th Street in North Granite.

When the paramedics arrived at 6:09 a.m., Dawn, 23, told them that she was three days past due and that the baby was coming ... now.

Martinez and LeMaster, who have both been on a number of calls to transport pregnant women in their careers, were skeptical.

"I thought, 'yeah right'. Normally people say they're having a baby and they're nowhere near."

"But we got her to lie down on a stretcher and we checked and she was," Martinez said.

Nine minutes later, the head of little Hayden Godair emerged.

Although neither Martinez, who helped with the actual delivery, nor LeMaster, a 17-year veteran of the department, had ever delivered a baby before, both remained calm and cool, Dawn Godair said.

"They were real helpful — they kept my husband sane."

"You would have thought that they had delivered

Venice urged to drop residency law

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

It's time for Venice to drop its residency requirements for police officers, Alderman Henry Fletcher told the City Council on Tuesday.

"Where in the city, right now, do we have houses these officers would want to live in?" Fletcher asked.

Three Venice police officers resigned last month rather than meet the City Council's ultimatum to move into the city within 60 days. While Fletcher said he didn't necessarily feel any sympathy for those officers, he said the available stock of "decent housing" in Venice is very small and "I think it's unfair to make them move into the city when we don't have anywhere decent for them to live."

Mayor Tyrone Echols and the other seven aldermen objected to Fletcher's assessment of the Venice housing situation.

"I'm a landlord, my son's a landlord, (Alderman) Michael Terrell is a landlord, and I think we believe there are decent places to live available," Echols said.

Aldermen John Henry Williams and Victor Valentine said that if Fletcher believes Venice isn't a good enough place for policemen to live, then Fletcher may want to reconsider being an alderman representing the people who do live there.

Echols said the reason "at least 95 percent of the time" police officers leave the city is not housing. It's money.

"I don't care if they lived in Hollywood, when you pay what (Venice) pays they're going to get a job that

Have any homework? Parents to get answer

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Coolidge Junior High School student may soon begin to think twice before answering that age-old parental question: "Do you have any homework?"

On Tuesday, the school board approved the $2,235 purchase of a homework/attendance telephone calling system for the school.

The system allows parents and students to call the school and, after entering a code number assigned to each teacher, hear a recorded message listing all homework assigned that day. A similar system is in use at the high school.

"This is the latest innovative use of technology," Superintendent Steve Balen said.

Teachers will update the recordings daily during preparation periods. The system also allows teachers to make assignments from home in the event the teacher misses a day.

"This will allow teachers to assist substitutes and help prevent any break in continuity when a teacher misses a day," Coolidge Principal Jim Jeffries said.

Escaped murderer is captured here

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Good investigative work is being credited with the arrest Thursday of a 47-year-old fugitive from the Missouri Department of Corrections who was supposed to be serving a 27-year prison term for a second-degree murder conviction.

James E. King was arrested at Kmart Thursday afternoon, allegedly for shoplifting.

Police said he gave them a false name at the time of his arrest. But further investigation revealed that he had escaped from a Missouri prison more than a year ago and had been on the run from authorities since, police said.

A security guard at the store told police he saw King stuff merchandise in his pants. The guard held King and a juvenile who was with him until police arrived.

At the police station, King gave police an expired Illinois identification card with a false name, according to a police report.

Officers became suspicious when the juvenile told them that King was his uncle, but the child's mother denied knowing King.

Another relative eventually identified King, and a computer check revealed his status as a fugitive.

After his true identity was discovered, King told police that he had been arrested several times since escaping and had always used a fictitious name.

No other agency had been able to determine his real identity until Thursday, King told police.

Cannabis charge filed

Jeffrey L. Ruckel, 30, of the 1900 block of Benton Street, was arrested at 2:15 p.m. Thursday for unlawful possession of cannabis.

A woman at the Town and Country Apartment complex on Parkview Drive told police that she saw Ruckel smoking a cigarette, alleged to contain cannabis.

Ruckel was released on a notice to appear in court.

DUI arrest

Harlan S. Sykes, 50, of the 2400 block of Sunbury Avenue, was arrested at 12:07 a.m. July 30 for driving under the influence of alcohol.

An officer reported stopping a white 1991 Ford van for a routine traffic violation on State Street near 17th Street.

Sykes, the driver, refused to take the field sobriety tests and refused to take a breath analysis test and was charged.

Man shot

A 32-year-old man was scheduled to have a BB removed from his stomach during surgery July 30 after being shot by one of four youths the day before.

Officers dispatched to the 1300 block of Norwood Drive found the man lying on the ground, with a small hole in the left side of his abdomen.

The man told police that he had been cutting weeds in his back yard at about 4:45 p.m. July 29 while some youths had been shooting a BB gun from a second story window across the street.

The man was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, and was scheduled to undergo surgery to remove the BB from his stomach July 30.

The youths told police that they had been shooting birds from a second story window, and that they could have accidentally shot the man.

A BB gun was confiscated from the bedroom of one of the boys. The boys were released to the custody of their parents pending further investigation.

Fight nets charges

A fight in the Town and Country Apartment complex on Parkview Drive during the early morning hours July 30 resulted in the arrest of two men. The matter was still under investigation that afternoon, police said.

Antonio M. Avila, 23, of the 1700 block of Rhodes Avenue, was charged with aggravated battery in a warrant issued July 30.

He is alleged to have struck Joseph Thomas, 24, in the head with a blunt object.

Bond on the warrant is $35,000. Anthony R. Allen, 39, of Wright City, Mo., was charged with unlawful use of a weapon in the case.

Officers dispatched to the apartment complex were met by witnesses who said that Avila and another man, who had since fled the scene, began fighting on the parking lot at around 3:30 a.m.

They said that Thomas, a resident of the apartment complex, attempted to break up the fight, but was struck on the head by a small baseball bat wielded by Avila.

Thomas was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and faded in and out of consciousness while speaking with police, according to a police report.

Allen told police that he saw the fight taking place on the parking lot and, when the men bumped into his car, grabbed his .357 magnum revolver in an attempt to protect his vehicle from further damage.

Allen was pointing the gun, which had six live rounds in it, at a crowd on the parking lot when police arrived, according to a police report.

He immediately complied when ordered to drop the weapon, the report states.

United Way Partnership making plans for cleanup

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

While the Mississippi River has yet to crest, the United Way Partnership is already making plans for a clean up once the water recedes.

"Get your trash bags, your boots and your shovels," said Candy Runion, director of the Volunteer Center for the United Way. "It will be every bit as hard as sandbagging and every bit as important."

The cleanup, called "A Day of Caring" is still in the planning stages and will likely remain that way until flood waters go down.

As soon as the river lets us know when it's going back into its banks," Runion said of a date for the event. "We're hoping some time in September."

The cleanup day was just one of the things discussed Tuesday during a meeting of the United Way Partnership and other service agencies in Wood River.

The United Way Partnership was formed earlier this year from the United Way chapters in Collinsville, Edwardsville and Alton.

From that meeting, the Flood Relief Task Force emerged. The meeting, attended by 50 representatives from various groups, is the first in a series to be held every two weeks.

The group will meet again at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 10. The meeting will be held at the Trail West Boy Scout Council office, 1055 Harrison St., in Wood River.

The Flood Relief Task Force is broken down into a variety of subcommittees. The subcommittees address such issues as: youth services, counseling, housing and shelter, information and referral services, cleanup, food and clothing, and medicine.

"We began to realize that everybody was out there doing their thing to try to help people, with Agency A not having any idea what Agency B was doing," Runion said. "Sometimes there's a better way."

Runion said the meeting got together several people "who knew each other on the phone but had never met." Runion said she hopes that other agencies will get involved at the next meeting.

"The best thing to come out of a crisis is that it gets everyone working together," Runion said. "It's also nice to be sure everybody knows what everybody else has as far as resources."

Runion is also hoping that 1,000 volunteers will turn out for the cleanup.

"We're planning to have groups of 10," Runion said. "It could be a bunch of family members or friends, or just 10 people who show up."

Runion is already gathering names of those interested in the effort. They should call her at 462-1234.

Runion is also hoping to hear from other agencies or businesses interested in helping. "If they want to be a part, it doesn't matter where they're at," Runion said. "If they want to be involved, we want them."

Salvation Army will be helped by sales

ALTON — The Flood of '93 can be seen all over newspapers, television and on the front of T-shirts around Alton.

Missy Maendele is selling custom T-shirts to help raise money for the Salvation Army. The front of the shirt has a stop sign with water lapping at it and the words "1993 Flood of The Century."

Maendele and husband, Mark, owners of Creative Screen Printing and More in Roxana, had been busy at the store and weren't able to help sandbag, but wanted to help, she said. They began donating plain T-shirts to the Salvation Army, but felt that wasn't enough.

The Maendeles got the idea to print souvenir shirts and sell them for $10 with $3 going to the Salvation Army.

"For people who can't sandbag, this is a good way people can help," Missy Maendele said. So far, Maendele has sold more than 200 shirts at her stand on the corner of Broadway and Market Street.

Businesses, including the Salvation Army are helping sell and distribute the shirts.

She said the shirts are popular with visitors as gifts for people outside the area, and with the National Guard and residents.

As long as there is a demand for the tank tops and T-shirts, which come in white or gray, Mark Maendele said he will continue printing them.

Shirts can also be bought at the Salvation Army, 525 Alby St., and Creative Screen Printing and More, 201 N. Central Ave. in Roxana.

Venice Council rejects plan for job screening process

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

A proposal to establish a city hiring policy that included formal job applications and a screening process was turned down by the Venice City Council last week.

The aldermen voted 5-2 against the proposal made by Alderman Silver Franklin. Alderman Michael Terrell joined Franklin in voting for the proposal and Alderman Henry Fletcher abstained.

Franklin said he was glad to hear that persons wanting the two dispatcher jobs open in the city had filed out applications and said he hoped that would be required for all jobs in the future.

"I know the street superintendent (Green Jacks) wishes you would screen the people you send him," Franklin said.

Franklin said a lot of the people hired to do temporary work at the street department "just aren't willing to work." He said that in addition to problems with people not showing up for work or showing up late, there is a big theft problem at the department.

"Our tools (at the street department) never wear out, they walk out," Franklin said.

Echols said "every one" of the people hired for temporary work had been sent to him by an alderman. He said the idea of the temporary work was to help out people in need and "when an alderman tells me a person needs the job I'm not going to second guess them."

Asked by Franklin, Jacks said he has had the problems described by Franklin with the employees sent to the department.

Franklin said the problems show there needs to be some method of screening the applicants.

Echols said he didn't think it was that involved.

"For two weeks work, I don't think we need to get the FBI involved," Echols said.

Fletcher told Jacks that if one of the people he sent isn't working, "Fire him."

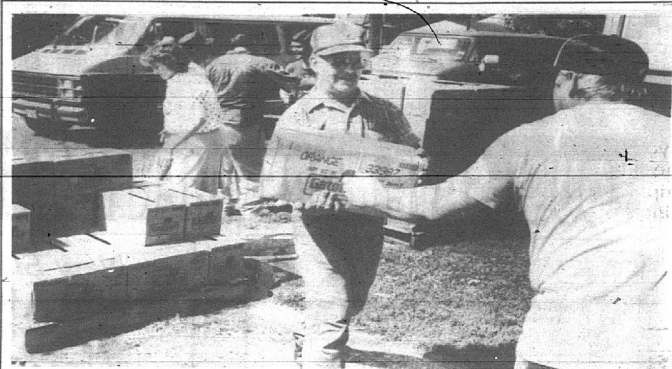

Jacks said he doesn't know which alderman sent a person. "They all come from the mayor."

Alderman Victor Valentine said the people should be working, but questioned whether Jacks was expecting too much from the temporary employees.

"This is a very strenuous job and we're paying $2 an hour," he said. "They're not going to work their tails off for $2 an hour."

Valentine said the whole idea of the temporary employees was to take care of citizens in immediate need while helping out the city a little. He said he was tired of the City Council arguing about "penny-ante stuff" while the city is falling apart.

The issue of temporary workers "is bickering over nothing," Valentine said, and he said it is time for the city to "get together and get something real going for the city."

Flooding affecting tourism

The current flooding along the Mississippi River and its tributaries in Southern Illinois has affected many sites and attractions that are normally hosting vacationers and tourists during this peak summer travel time.

Steve Frattini, executive director of the Southern Illinois Tourism Council, stated that "Although a portion of southern Illinois has been adversely affected, that by no means has the entire region of southern Illinois fallen victim to our rivers. In fact most of southern Illinois and its many leisure destinations remain totally unaffected and continues to host vacationers and tourists."

Frattini recommends that prospective visitors to southern Illinois should not cancel their long range plans to visit the region, as the spirit of those currently affected by flooding is, soon as the water goes down we will be open for business as usual.

In determining current travel plans to southern Illinois, don't cancel your plans, instead call for specific information:

The Southern Illinois Tourism Council maintains a travel information service that can be reached Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. by calling 800-342-3100.

For whatever period of time necessary the Illinois Bureau of Tourism is staffing an information hotline related to areas affected by flooding from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m. daily at 800-555-5388.

Message of soaring birds: Peace will come

By Shay Wessol
Staff writer

As the swollen Mississippi River engulfs acre after acre, one scene that stands out in Lanny H. Darr's mind is the graceful herons perched on rotting logs hoping to catch an afternoon snack.

"The wildlife is really taking this well," Madison County's director of emergency services says. "This is their smorgasbord."

The flood's waters are trapping all kinds of fish for them to eat.

The image of the large white, gray-and-blue birds drifting effortlessly across the sea of water carries with it a deeper meaning: Peace will come.

But until that time, Darr is keeping busy.

As the coordinator for the flood relief effort, Darr is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, working with state and federal agencies to find funds and resources for the effort.

In the meantime, he logs hundreds of miles in his four-wheel-drive vehicle as he checks on his patient — the levy.

"It's more like a living, breathing animal than a stationary mound of dirt," Darr said.

"Everything's got to work together for it to work, and the Corps of Engineers knows exactly how it works."

Darr and Corps members walk the levy daily, noticing the slightest changes in the water levels and the seepage below. All is OK, Darr says, and should stay that way.

His office switchboard is ablaze with flashing lights as concerned county residents call for the latest flood information, and his staff juggles two or three phone calls at once.

And, closer to the flooding, National Guard members fight the afternoon heat and the nightly swarms of mosquitoes as they keep the 24 hour watch.

"Nobody's testy," Darr said. "That's what I like about these people. They're out doing their jobs, doing what they're trained to do, and they're not complaining. We all just work together."

Cooperation has been the key to the flood relief effort these past weeks, Darr said. Despite the discouragement and sadness the flood waters have brought, Darr has been impressed by the strength of the people and the numbers that have turned out to donate their time, energy and supplies.

More than "twelve million, seven hundred and eighty-three" sandbags have been filled, Darr said.

"We can do, as man, as much as we want to do, but we can't fool Mother Nature," he said. "We are put back in our place by the Mighty Mississippi."

pays more and leave," Echols said.

Fletcher said he understood that, but still believed that as long as the officers lived within five or ten miles of the city it would be all right.

Echols said that almost every city in the area has a residency requirement and he believed Venice should keep its requirement in place.

Corps

face, he said, and the levees are equipped with seepage drains to relieve the pressure from the water. If they equalize itself, he said those drains are the source of the water at the base of the levee.

There have been some sand boils caused by water pressuring the levee, he said, but they were "pin-hole sand boils" that were quickly identified and immediately controlled.

Gilmore said the Corps of Engineers, the Metro East Sanitary District, members of the Illinois National Guard and "concerned citizens" are patrolling the levee around the clock.

Lengyel said he understood that the Corps of Engineers could consider most sand boils "nothing to worry about." But Lengyel said, to people whose knowledge of sand boils comes from near-hysterical television reports on failing levees, the idea of any sand boil is terrifying.

Lengyel and Granite City Mayor Ron Selph said they wished information had been given out immediately about the minor nature of the sand boils and the fact the sand boils have been brought under control so that make money here should spend money here," he said.

People who live in the community they serve have more compassion for the people, Echols said.

I hate to bring up the subject of schools, but when I went to school I saw the teacher not only in school but she lived a half block from me," he said. "The teacher knew all about me."

Through changes in the laws, Echols said, teachers can no longer be required to live in district where they work. He said some of the local rumors and worries could have been avoided.

Gilmore said that the Corps of Engineers has actually been criticized for putting out too much information and been accused of fueling hysteria.

But it is our policy to tell (the local officials) what is happening and our assessment of the danger it poses and let the officials make the final decision about what action to take," Gilmore said.

But the "big questions—the what ifs" about what might flood the levee, the Corps would just cannot be answered, he said, because those answers would depend on when and where the levee breaks, what type of break and how big the break is.

Gilmore said that if a major problem developed at any area of the levee, the Corps would notify the local officials. At that time, he said, the Corps would make predictions about what could happen and what areas might be affected.

In that case, we would tell you, if there is a break here, we think this area could be flooded and you could decide if and when you need to take place," Gilmore said.

But as of Friday, Gilmore said, his stretch of levee appeared to be in good shape and he could foresee no problems with the 46-foot river crest.

He said he was glad to have been given a chance to have the levee situation explained.

"He called me the levees and can tell people everything is under control," Bellcoff said.

Selph said he felt better about the levees after the tour, but said he still believes there is a need for better lines of communication. He said not having updates, even if they say nothing, makes the job of assuring people tougher.

"Dennis (Gilmore) convinced me the local sand boils are not a problem," Selph said. "But when a farmer sees the Army, a hell of a lot of people are going out next to a levee and, when he asks, is told it's a sand boil he gets excited."

He calls his neighbors, they call their friends and the next thing you know I'm getting a call that there is a sand boil out behind the Tri-City Park and is levee is about to collapse."

"I don't know what to say because that's the first I heard about it. If the city were kept up to date I would know and could have been in the area under control and that people shouldn't get excited."

Market Street to Madison Avenue and then Third Street to McCambridge.

In the case of an emergency, Madison will sound its alarm sirens continuously for 30 minutes.

In Pontoon Beach, the Lake Volunteer Fire Department will sound its alarm continuously for 30 minutes in the event evacuation is ordered.

Pontoon residents are urged to take either Interstate 270 or Highway 162 east toward the bluff country around the bluff country.

Any handicapped individuals who would need assistance in evacuating are urged to call the Pontoon Beach Village Hall at 931-1922.

All area residents may watch local community access cable Channel 6 for updates on the status of the levee. Residents without cable television should tune in to broadcast television and radio stations for emergency news.

Debris force bridge closing

Concerns about the amount of debris being carried by the flooding Mississippi River has resulted in the temporary closing of the McKinley Bridge in Venice.

City officials said the bridge was closed at 10 p.m. Friday and would remain closed at least through Monday. The Missouri River was expected to crest here this weekend and the Mississippi River is expected to crest Tuesday at 49 feet — 19 feet above flood stage.

Area cities are formulating evacuation plans in the event the rising Mississippi River breaks through area levees in the coming week.

Local officials are maintaining continual communication with Metro East Sanitary District President Walter "Shang" Greathouse and Madison County Emergency Services Coordinator Lanny Darr.

In the event an evacuation is necessary, residents should immediately pull breakers at the electrical box and shut off gas at the meter, Granite City Fire Chief Keith Talley said.

Granite City officials plan to sound sirens for a 30-minute period in the event evacuation becomes necessary. The primary escape route in Granite City is named Road to either Interstate 270 or Highway 162.

The sirens will be tested at 10 a.m. Tuesday for a period of 30 minutes.

In Madison, Police Chief Charlie Bridick said if an evacuation becomes necessary, the central area of town should take Sixth Street or Third Street to Highway 162.

Residents of East Madison should take Rook Street, or Harris Street to McCambridge. Residents of West Madison should take Bissell Street or lands, again without a permit, the order states.

The Corps then issued a third cease and desist order on March 12, and ordered Shafer to restore the site to its pre-project condition.

Shafer must now notify the EPA of his intent to comply with the order, file a plan for restoration of the site, an begin restoration within 30 days of approval of the plan.

Failure to comply could result in administrative penalties of $10,000 per day of violation, up to a maximum of $125,000.

Shafer could also face judicial penalties of up to $5,000 per day of violation. The U.S. EPA could also seek criminal sanctions, including fines and imprisonment.

According to the order, the area filled, just off Highway 111 in Pontoon Beach, qualifies as "navigable waters" because it is located adjacent to Horseshoe Lake, which was created by natural shifting of the Mississippi River, an interstate stream.

Did the paramedics learn anything new from the experience? "When it comes to delivering a baby," Martinez said, "I'm not sure."

Admitting he was nervous, Martinez said he comes to deliver a baby more and more easily by one of two policemen on the scene who gave a "play by play" of the delivery.

"The head emerged and (the officer) said, 'Here's the head.' When a shoulder became visible, he said 'There's a shoulder.' I turned around and he was doing a heck of a job," Martinez said.

Hayden weighed 5 pounds 15 ounces at birth and was a 3-year-old brother, Zachary, and an 18-month-old sister, Bronia.

3 risks to consider with bond mutual funds

This is the third and last article in a series about bond mutual funds. This article will discuss yield as well as three risks to consider: interest rate risk, credit risk and inflation risk.

Total earnings on a bond fund include two components: income and price appreciation or depreciation. The income earned on the bonds in the fund's portfolio is passed through to the investor. Bond fund income payments can be taken in cash or reinvested in the fund. This component of a bond fund's earnings is called its yield.

Two major factors affecting yield are the quality and maturity of the bonds in the fund's portfolio. In general, lower quality and longer maturity mean greater risk for the investor, and so the bond fund must offer a higher yield to encourage investment in their fund.

The price at which bonds trade and how this is affected by interest rates is a critical point to understand as a buyer or a seller of a bond mutual fund.

I CAN HELP

In that way, Brenda makes up for the lower-than-marketplace interest payments. Suppose, on the other hand, Brenda needed to sell it when the prevailing interest rates on new bonds equaled seven percent? She could charge a premium price for her bond, which is paying a more favorable nine percent.

In that way, the buyer will receive less than they paid for it when the bond matures, making up for the higher-than-marketplace interest payments received in the interim.

Credit risk is another reason why bond fund share prices might decline. Credit risk refers to the creditworthiness of the bond issuer and its expected ability to repay its debt.

If a bond issuer represented in the fund's portfolio cannot honor its obligations, the fund's share may lose value. Typically, the lower the credit rating, the higher the yield the investment will pay to encourage investors to take on the additional risk. Why accept any risk? One

Fertilizing's easy when you do it By The Numbers

From the experts at

FRANK'S[®] NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

What's in a name? Plenty. What's in a number? Even more, if you're talking about fertilizer! Fertilizer bags always greet you with those three numbers!

There is much confusion surrounding the numbers.

Many people have absolutely no idea what they stand for. Others have a 'vague' idea, but aren't really sure. Many folks simply end up using the same fertilizer as their neighbor. After all, he seems to know what he's doing.

Those familiar three numbers you see on every fertilizer container are there for a reason. They tell you what's in the bag or box you just bought, or, better yet, are thinking of buying.

Miracle-Gro's numbers are 15-30-15, you'll find 35-35-5 on a bag of Scotts Super Turf Builder and a container of Frank's Rose Food boasts a 5-12-8. All of this may mean about as much to you as the number of thick and thin lines on the bar code. We're going to clear them up!

N-P-K. That's it! That's what they stand for.

N = Nitrogen
P = Phosphorus
K = Potassium

The first number is nitrogen, the second is phosphorus and the third is potassium. They're always in that same order on every container.

The numbers express the relative amount, by weight, of these three elements. For example, the Frank's Rose Food (5-12-8) we mentioned earlier contains 5% nitrogen, 12% phosphorus and 8% potassium. Wait a minute!

That's only a total of 25%. What's the other 75%? Glad you asked! It's a carrier that helps distribute the fertilizer more evenly around your yard and garden.

Now that this is becoming clearer, you still must know what to look for. If a product indicates 5% nitrogen, it won't help much if you don't know what the nitrogen does!

Nitrogen (N) promotes leafy green growth that leads to a healthy lawn, beautiful shade tree or a thick, lush hedge. If you want to cause a rapid green-up of your lawn, look for a fertilizer with a high percentage of nitrogen. Frank's Lawn Fertilizer (28-4-8) would be the perfect choice.

Phosphorus (P) stimulates root growth and promotes flowering and fruiting. This is what you need when planting a new tree or in helping your annual and perennial flowers put on a dazzling display. Use a fertilizer with a high phosphorus percentage such as Frank's Bone Meal (4-12-0) or Ortho Upstart (5-15-5).

Potassium (K) contributes to cold hardiness, heat tolerance and disease resistance. Many fall lawn fertilizers are quite high in potassium to help prepare the lawn for winter.

You may run across a fertilizer with all the numbers equal or very close, such as Frank's All-Purpose Lawn & Garden Food (12-12-12). These make excellent general-purpose plant foods.

So now that the mystery surrounding these three numbers has been unraveled, you can head to Frank's with confidence, and pick up the right product every time.

And who knows? You may discover that your neighbor hasn't been using the right stuff after all!

batters in five innings.

"Carl did tremendous," Mayes said. "We just had superb pitching."

Sean Courtney pitched two shutout innings in relief for the Sluggers, who were scheduled to play the Tigers on Saturday.

The loss dropped the Eagles to 7-2 for the season and into a tie with Illinois American Water for second place. Both teams' losses have come against the Sluggers.

As the softball season winds down, more and more teams seem to be rounding into form and it wasn't any more evident Thursday night in Pontiat Midget League play.

The 1st Bank Sluggers, who lead the league with only one loss, fought off a tough Lions Lucky Ladies squad and came out with a 20-11 victory.

"Their team played a very good game," said Lynn Wright, who has led the Sluggers to an 8-1 record this season. "At this time of the season, all the teams start coming together. It's a really tight race for second through fourth place in the league."

Jenna Wright got the pitching victory for the Sluggers, who suffered their only loss of the season last week against Eagle Carpet Cleaning. Melissa Smith came on in the seventh inning and struck out the side to cap the Stinger triumph.

"I'm kind of surprised at the record we have," Wright said. "The girls have come together and this is a new team, but they've managed to win. We just got the hits (Thursday)."

Errors plagued the Braves in their eight-inning loss against the G.C.P.D. Saints on Wednesday as the Braves fell to 5-6 in Bantam II action.

The Braves held a two-run advantage in the fifth inning and rallied for a one-run lead in the eighth, but the Saints scored a pair in the bottom of the eighth to win 8-7.

"Our undoing all year has been a lack of confidence and the errors," said Braves coach Gary York, who is assisted by Dave Matosian. "The boys need to realize they can be better."

Despite the loss to the Saints, York said he has seen some bright spots this season. Pitching has been a strength, and Justin York and Danny Brown are the Braves' two top hurlers.

Offensively, York said Ryan Balew has been "killing the ball lately" and outfielders Patrick Copeland and Sonny Fields have done an "exceptional job."

"If you take away a bad inning here and there, we could be 9-2," York said.

Other members of the Braves include Billy Holland, Phillip Matosian, Jay White, Jason Dickerson, Nicholas Satturo, Brad Hovis, Casey Broyles and Bobby Davis.

The Braves will meet the Sportsprint Stars on Wednesday in the final regular season game of the season. The top four squads in the seven-team league will qualify for the playoffs, which begin Aug. 11.

National Honor Society at Granite City High initiates 10 seniors, 36 juniors

The National Honor Society of Granite City High School recently held its initiation ceremony in the school cafeteria.

During the program, 10 seniors and 36 juniors were initiated. The seniors initiated were Brett Baron, Timothy Connolly, Paula Gregory, Michelle Langsdorf, Gabriel Mitchell, Keith Nussbaum, Charlene Pearman, James Sean Smothers, Paul Stepanek, and Jennifer Turk.

The juniors initiated were Mary Alvarez, Aaron Belmer, Brooke Bjorkman, Christina Cahill, Keri Cunningham, Emily Epperson, Lynsay Evans, Jonathan Galbreath, Amy Gebhart,

To become a member of the National Honor Society, a student must meet certain requirements. A student must display qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service by participating in school and community activities, along with maintaining a 4.25 grade point average.

The program was called to order by President Carrie Heck. The national anthem was also sung by Carrie Heck. Principal David Painter and Superintendent Steven Balen welcomed the initiates and guests.

Entertainment was provided by the senior members of the National Honor Society. Michael Davis played a saxophone solo; Jeremy Reuter played an original drum solo; Amy Krakowicz sang a vocal solo; and Dustin Wilkinson read an excerpt from Odyssey.

Jason Hall gave an original oration about the history and meaning of the National Honor Society. Introductory remarks were made by Mary Perdue-Tapp, NHS adviser. The 1991-92 officers then gave interpretations of the principles of the National Honor Society. President Carrie Heck spoke on leadership; Vice President Kathryn Schmedake spoke on scholarship; Secretary Amanda Gudac spoke on character; and Treasurer Steven Lubak spoke on service. The initiates then recited the NHS pledge led by Mary Perdue-Tapp. The initiates were presented with their certificates by Principal Painter and NHS adviser Andrew Yurko.

Painter then welcomed new members and addressed them on the importance of maintaining the principles of the organization. The ceremony concluded with announcements by Andrew Yurko and a reception.

Local Girl Scouts in the Ainal Shrine Temple Circus parade.
Girl Scouts join circus parade

They wanted more than to just sit at the curb and watch the parade pass them by. They wanted to become a part of the action. So, more than 40 Granite City Girl Scouts joined together to take part in the annual Ainal Shrine Temple Circus parade.

The girls made posters and banners representing their troops. These were carried or placed on the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council bus, which followed the girls along the parade route. At the end of the parade, the girls received drinks and snacks, supplied by their leaders, while waiting for the parents. Everyone had a great time and hoped that more Girl Scouts would join them in the parade next year.

Troops and their leaders who participated were Sylvia Freeman, Parkview Troop 243; Liz Longyel, Maryville Troop 729; Cathy Carmsky, Holy Family Troop 911; Rita Halbrook, Holy Family Troop 57; Debbie Amberger, Holy Family Troop 892; Bobi Papa, St. Elizabeth Troop 259; and Kathy Lackenbrock, St. Elizabeth Troop 316.

Talk on coping with stroke

For persons who have experienced a stroke, are the family member of a stroke victim, a concerned friend or care giver, or anyone who wants to learn more about strokes in order to provide better care, St. Elizabeth Medical Center is offering a program designed for them.

Neurologist Riaz Naseer, MD, is featured in a series of informational talks entitled "Coping with Stroke: The Patient and Family."

The next talk will be held Wednesday, Aug. 4, from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., in the Extend-Care Solarium, third floor of the Binney Wing at SEMC, 2700 Madison Ave., Granite City. Sessions are held the first Wednesday of every other month.

Space is limited, and registration is required for the series. To register, call the Education Resources Department can be called at 786-3331.

Dr. Naseer will discuss deficits, post-stroke depression, visual problems, relationships with family, dealing with family, and how to cope.

He received his medical degree at the Dow Medical School in Karachi, Pakistan. He interned at Deaconess Hospital in St. Louis, had a fellowship at Barnes Hospital and served as assistant professor at St. Louis University.

Naseer has been the medical director of the Extend Care Rehabilitation Unit since its opening in 1985.

The Lions Eye Tissue Bank throughout Missouri and Illinois has 375 Enucleators. These are certified and trained and very special people who participate in the surgical procedure of removing donor eye tissue and who have retrieved tissue from donors more than 2,000 times since January of 1990. After graduating from Harding University in 1977, Kirk Davis and a group of friends went to Bangladesh and worked in a refugee camp. They saw much human suffering. He has returned to his home country, Phelps, and works at the Regional Medical Center in Rolla as a nursing manager of the second floor. He attended a presentation of the Midwest Organ Bank on organ and tissue donation.

The possibility of enabling one to see again through a transplant appealed to his caring nature and he trained to be an enucleator. He enjoys working with the Lions Eye Tissue Bank and similar organizations making other people's lives better.
